

DEDICATION OF ART GALLERY IS IN FORM OF PAGEANT

Affair at New Hope Brings Together Outstanding Bucks Countians

BY BUCKS CO. ARTISTS

Said To Be Only Scholastic Traveling Art Gallery Of Its Kind

By Staff Reporter

NEW HOPE, Sept. 27.—A pageant of Bucks County art, a dedication ceremony of the Bucks County Traveling Art Gallery, brought together last evening an impressive array of outstanding Bucks Countians. The ceremony, held in Bucks County Playhouse, here, marked dedication of the "only scholastic traveling art gallery of its kind anywhere," and the company which filled the playhouse expressed delight at the unique method of dedicating the large number of works of art, which with but one exception, was by Bucks County artists.

Many celebrities including artists and authors; as well as jurists, lawyers, educators, assemblymen, senators, editors, publishers, historians, industrialists, and also pupils from Bucks County schools were gathered on this auspicious occasion.

A number of those gathered participated in either the unveilings, the dedications, or were paid tribute as having executed the oils, water colors, lithographs, wood engravings, etc. In addition there was in one series a bas-relief, the Bucks County seal, a cathedral border replica by one of Bucks County's outstanding artists in stained glass, and a plexiglas woodland scene honoring one of the country's leading chemical manufacturing firms, Rohm & Haas Company, Bristol.

As announced in the souvenir programs which were distributed, "The Bucks County Art Gallery was inspired by many persons, notably Dr. Valentine Kirby, formerly chief of art, Department of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; Walter Baum, Edward Redfield and George Sotter. The plan as outlined . . . provides for four groups of works of art, each traveling in a different high school circuit in Bucks County. In that way all four collections will reach all high schools once every four years. A fifth group will be housed in the county educational building at Doylestown. Items from this collection will be on call."

It was further explained that the art gallery is made possible by the generosity of the artists of Bucks County. To date the artists themselves have contributed in discounts and outright gifts over $8,200, with organizations and individuals contributing $960. The plan is to add one item to this permanent collection each year. In the main, objects of art in the gallery will be limited to Bucks County artists and craftsmen.

The program opened with invocation by the Rev. Eli Wismer, pastor of New Hope Presbyterian Church, followed by introduction by H. John Rosenberg, president of Doylestown school board. A concert by Doylestown high school band, directed by J. Paul Nuse, included 12 selections. Following the dedication of the 61 works of art, in which ceremony 107 persons participated, there was introduction by Frank Trembley, Jr., member of Bucks County board of school directors, of Budd Schulberg, of Aquetong, author of "What Makes Sammy Run" and other well-known books. Mr. Schulberg, who moved to Bucks County in 1946, and who is now teacher of writing at Valley Forge

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of the Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

More than 50 members and friends of Plumsteadville Grange were taken on an imaginary tour across the continent, Friday, when George M. Hunsberger, showed natural color-pictures he took while on a lengthy trip early in the summer. Mr. Hunsberger was accompanied on the tour by his wife and daughter.

The Hunsberger family, which was gone a month, visited a large number of places of interest.

Of particular interest to the Grangers and their friends were scenes of Yellowstone National Park, the Grand Canyon, the Colorado, Yosemite Park, the immense wheat fields in Texas, Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco, redwood forests and Boulder dam. Nearest home Mr. Hunsberger, who made brief comments as the pictures were shown, took pictures of various sections in Pennsylvania. These included the capitol in Harrisburg and the Penna. Turnpike.

During a brief business session the master, Raymond C. Gross, and Mrs. Gross were delegated to attend sessions of state Grange in Kane.

Hit broadside by a large trailer-truck, Mrs. Cyril Smith, of Willow Grove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Gehman, Doylestown, suffered an injured ankle Friday, while riding with a neighbor.

The car, a new one, driven by the neighbor, Mrs. Albertson, was struck at Moreland avenue and York road, where the women, said to have the green light, were half way across the intersection when the enormous truck went through.

School News:

LANGHORNE DISTRICT ENROLLS 1300 PUPILS

Buildings Are Crowded and Classes Are Reported Large

FIFTY IN SOME CLASSES

LANGHORNE, Sept. 27.—The Langhorne-Middletown schools comprising the four boroughs of Langhorne, Langhorne Manor, Fennell and Hulmeville and Middletown Township opened with a total enrollment of nearly 1,300 pupils. The elementary school enrollment numbers 780 and the high school 509. This year the first grade has 160 pupils as compared with 155 last year and 135 during the previous year. Ten teachers handle the pupils in the first and second grades and four in the third grade. We are rapidly approaching the time when each of the elementary grades will require a staff of from five to six teachers. Every available room in the existing schools is being used. "With the growing enrollment it is immediately apparent that additional building facilities will be required during the next few years or pupils will have to be placed on a half day session," it is stated.

The 16 rooms in the high school accommodate an enrollment of 509 pupils. This is an average of nearly 32 pupils to a room. Consequently some classes number as many as 45 to 50 pupils. The number of small classes are few and are found mostly in foreign languages, advanced mathematics and advanced stenography.

The high school program this year includes several new subjects such as journalism, general physics, business english and business arithmetic. There is need for further extension of the educational program but because of limited facilities this will have to be deferred until a later date. Particularly in demand are advanced courses in industrial arts, art, music and commercial education. This tendency on the part of pupils is in accordance with the pursuits of pupils after leaving school. During the past ten years not more than fifteen percent of the high school graduates furthered their education in institutions of higher learning. The increasing cost of higher education has been a determining factor in the case of many pupils who had the ability and interest to pursue advanced study. Langhorne-Middletown high school graduates who pursue college courses is equal to the state average for all high school graduates.

Bucks County had one pedestrian death in the seven months period, or three less than in that period in 1948. Rural pedestrian deaths were: one in 1949, and three in 1948; and urban: none in 1949, and one in 1948.

DICTATORSHIP AT WORK

Whether or not you own a set, you probably have been keeping up with the latest news about television.

So most likely you already know that the next big step for television to take is to go into color.

This has been in the experimental stage for several years. Recently two big companies came forward, each with its own method of broadcasting and receiving full color. The companies both insist that old sets will continue to be able to receive the new type broadcasts in black and white, while adapters will be available to turn the old sets into color-television.

Why aren't these sets and adaptors on the market?

Of course if you've been reading the newspapers, you know the answer. The Federal Government hasn't given its permission.

There's another bit of recent news which also must be fresh in your mind—the attempt by the U. S. Government to stop the give-away radio shows, where people win everything from a refrigerator to a white elephant for naming a song or telling who was the first President.

Radio and television stations are on notice that they will have to conform to a set of trick regulations which will hamstring this type of program—or their licenses probably won't be renewed.

Let's look at both these matters for a moment. Let's skip the question of whether color television is really "ripe", and whether give-away shows are a form of gambling which ought to be stopped.

The most significant point about both these matters is the high-handed and dictatorial way by which the Washington bureaucrats are trying to "lay down the law" to the American people.

The whole system of free government as outlined in our Constitution is being passed. There is nothing "democratic" in the government's approach—nothing resembling the procedures called for by the republican government supposedly guaranteed us. Instead, the way the government is going about these matters is exactly that of a Hitler or a Stalin or a British Socialist official.

HIGHWAY FATALITIES IN BUCKS THE SAME

14 Met Death In Accidents For First 7 Months In '48 and '49

BREAKDOWN IS GIVEN

There was no difference in the number of highway fatalities in Bucks County for the first seven months of 1949 and the figures for the first seven months of 1948, the record of monthly comparative motor vehicle traffic fatalities issued by the Bureau of Highway Safety, Dept. of Revenue, Commonwealth of Penna., shows.

Fourteen met death in Bucks County highway accidents in the first seven months last year and in the first seven months of this year. The total highway deaths in the state for that period last year was 851 compared to 843 this year.

For Bucks County the number of rural deaths was two less this year; and the number of urban death two more, making the figures for the period the same.

Bucks County had one pedestrian death in the seven months period, or three less than in that period in 1948. Rural pedestrian deaths were: one in 1949, and three in 1948; and urban: none in 1949, and one in 1948.

Members and their friends and wives met in the church and adjourned to the Sunday School room where a delicious baked ham dinner was served to the 85 guests.

The tables were attractively arranged. The Rev. T. R. Lobb, of the Cornwells Methodist Church, gave the invocation; and Raymond Dewees, president of the league, served in the capacity of toastmaster.

Mr. Dewees introduced Ralph Barclay, who led the group in singing, with Miss Jean Jones at the piano. Mr. Dewees said: "The league is now ten years old. It was started in 1939, but was not active during the war, and has been going strong for its third year since the war. The league had a very successful year, with eight teams playing this year. With the good fellowship shown this year it is felt that the league will have other successful seasons." He introduced "Al" Kohler, vice-president of the league.

Mr. Kohler said that he, too, felt that it had been a very successful year, and hoped that next year will be even more successful. He presented the guests: The Rev. T. R. Lobb, pastor of the Cornwells Methodist Church.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Russia was attacked by British Foreign Secretary Bevin yesterday in an address to the United Nations General Assembly. He denounced Soviet obstruction of all moves toward universal, ridged "Soviet terminology" in which "peace-loving" was a "word of ill omen" and "warmongering" signified "independence of Moscow." He called the accusation of Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky that the Western Powers had blocked international outlawing of atomic weapons "a stupid charge." Mr. Bevin said the United Nations had "performed a great task despite all obstacles."

Chairman Pearson of the Assembly's Political Committee declared that Russia's attitude on atomic control made her present position "hypocritical and meaningless."

Mr. Vishinsky introduced a resolution condemning war preparations by nations, mainly, he said, the United States and Britain, and another resolution for immediate action to outlaw the atomic bomb under "appropriate strict international control." In view of Russia's successful atomic explosion, talks between the United States, Britain and Canada on atomic data are likely to be put on a "continuing basis," a State Department official said.

The attack on Russia was joined by Yugoslav Foreign Minister Karadjelj, who said she had attacked his country's sovereignty through "slanders and lies," "economic pressure" and "armed frontier incident." The danger of war, he said, arises not from differences in social systems but from "imperialistic and anti-democratic tendencies," and peace cannot "be preserved with threats of war." In Budapest, Hungary gave ten members of the Yugoslav legation one day to leave the country. The ousted diplomats were called "spies and assassins."

Israel, opposing a commission plan to internationalize Jerusalem, will ask the United Nations to limit world authority in the city to the actual protection of the Holy Places.

The Big Four Foreign Ministers met last night to try to break the deadlock on an Austrian treaty.

The British Cabinet drafted for today's debate in Parliament on devaluation a confidence motion phrased to make a "No" vote difficult.

Chinese Communists launched a new drive that carried to within nearly ninety miles of Canton.

House conferees accepted the Senate version of the foreign arms-aid bill; final approval of the $1.1-billion bill is expected.

Hollywood Marital Merry-Go-Round Whirls

Hollywood—Hollywood's marital merry-go-round whirled along in high gear today, accelerated by Deanna Durbin's divorce suit and the announcement by Carmen Miranda of a "trial" separation from her husband. Carmen's "amicable" separation from film producer David Sebastian was attributed to professional interests which have kept them apart much of the time since their marriage in 1947.

Britain Reiterates Support, International Bomb Control

London—The British Government reiterated its support of international control for atomic energy today when Parliament met in special session to debate devaluation and Russia's possession of the atom bomb. Attlee replied: "I do not think it is in the public interest to make any further statement at present."

PROBING NEW FRONTIER

Steady depletion of the earth's natural resources in the face of a mounting curve in population figures has some of the best brains in the world at work. Other groups, both national and international, are eschewing discussion for positive prospecting. Some interesting and fascinating facts are beginning to turn up.

Not many persons knew, for instance, that there is an almost solid layer of "something" 200 fathoms down in all the oceans of the world. Floating laboratories of the Wood's Hole, Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts have been probing this mass with fathometers, and taking samples.

With typical scientific caution they will say little more than "it" is an underwater stratum of marine life which might turn out to be an important food source.

The sea-going laboratories have graphed a broad underwater highway all the way from Gibraltar to this country's east coast. In addition to turning up valuable undersea and weather data, they are constantly on the lookout for new sources of chemical and organic materials which might be tapped cheaply enough to supplant above-water resources. The probing of this new frontier is going on constantly all over the world.

A Scottish scientist bemoans the fact that "for the first time in history, there are no new territories to discover and exploit." On the basis of the undersea findings, it is reasonable to think that the Scot is overly pessimistic.

WON'T BUY CHEAP EGGS!

A. Ralph Trigg, who is administrator of the government's egg buying program, was explaining the mechanics of price support to the Senate Agriculture Committee. Eggs, he said, were selling on the eastern market for 90 cents a dozen retail. But in the Midwest the price has fallen off.

So, this year the government has bought more than $82,000,000 of eggs to keep the price at 90 per cent of parity. The going price is 35 cents a dozen.

Sen. Elmer Thomas, who may not like his eggs sunny side, but does like them cheap, asked an entirely natural question. Why, asked Senator Thomas, doesn't the government ship the eggs to the eastern market, where the midwestern poultrymen could get a higher price, and the eastern consumer could get a lower one?

Oh, said Trigg, eastern housewives wouldn't want the smaller eggs at the lower price. They'd much rather buy the larger ones at 90 cents.

Wait until the little woman hears this!

Freedom of speech is all right, but the taxpayer, seeing those useless government pamphlets, thinks there is too much of it in Washington.

Scientists say metals become fatigued. Perhaps that is what ails the family car.

So far as freedom is concerned, when the government stops a man from doing what he thinks he has a right to do, and does it by a simple edict without the express sanction of the people's branch of government (Congress), then freedom dies. The severity with which any given government enforces its arbitrary orders has nothing to do with the question of whether the citizens are losing their essential liberties.

Our Washington leaders, from President Truman down, take a deep breath from time to time and assure the American people how much they love "free enterprise," and how earnestly they are going to protect it.

Who's being kidded? Take the matter of color television. If we really had free enterprise in the United States, what would be happening? Some individual, or some company, already would have started marketing color-television sets. That's how every important new invention got marketed in this country, before the New Deal. That's how the cotton gin was marketed. That's how the automobile business was founded.

When the government denies to an inventor the right to try his inventions out in the public market, for purely economic reasons (as is the case in television), free enterprise has been stifled.

In that case, freedom and free government have been supplanted by "planned economy," which is a pleasant expression covering the same ground as the uglier words Statism, Socialism, welfare State and dictatorship.

In the matter of radio's give-away shows, the trampling of rights supposedly guaranteed by the Constitution is just as conspicuous.

The bureaucrats have charged that the give-away shows are a form of gambling and therefore detrimental to public interest. That's why they say they are going to stop such shows.

But what was the intention of the Constitution, whenever someone in the government thought that individuals were doing something contrary to public interest?

That question calls for two answers, depending on whether laws were being broken. If they were, the offenders were to be prosecuted under the laws. If no laws covered the matter, the intention of the Constitution was to have the problem submitted to Congress which, in the name of the American people, could thereupon write whatever law was required.

Note that neither procedure is being followed in the matter of radio give-aways. If you assume that the law as it now stands does not cover such shows, then you collide with the fact that the matter has not been laid before Congress—but that appointed bureaucrats, not responsible to the American people nor even known to them, have seized power which rightfully belongs to Congress.

If it is argued that the Federal laws against gambling can be stretched to cover give-away broadcasts, then the bureaucrats are in no more justifiable position. They have not turned the matter over to the judiciary, set up by the Constitution for exactly such purposes. Instead, they have sought to seize the power into their own hands—this time power rightfully belonging to the U. S. courts.

President Truman recently pretended not to know what was meant by such words as statism, collectivism, etc. Let's give him a simple description—they are all forms of government where the powers rightfully belonging to the legislative and judicial branches of government have been usurped by the executive branch.

That's exactly what has happened in the case of broadcasting. Perhaps you will argue at this point that it was Congress which created the Federal agency now trying to boss the radio waves.

True enough. But note this: Congress did not create this agency for the exercise of the powers it is now trying to use. It created the agency to REGULATE broadcasting, not CENSOR it. And it passed laws to prohibit what the COURTS held to be gambling—not what some BAND OF BUREAUCRATS might decide constituted games of chance.

Here is a field in which the American people are in an unusually good position to measure the extent to which Mr. Truman's proposed Journey to Socialism has already been completed.

Can you study the facts and feel that free enterprise is still alive and active in this nation—and that the Constitution is still in force?

Or doesn't the evidence prove to you that we already are inside the threshold of what the writers of the Constitution warned against in the Federalist papers—an "elective despotism?"

Is that what YOU want as your national government? If not, you'd better begin worrying what to do to stop it. Dictatorship and socialism are already here.

Hospital, Phoenixville, said: "It is interesting to see what a live culture we have in Bucks County, and how contributions are made by so many in their own way. I am pleased to see how cohesive a community can be. . . . What you have succeeded in doing here is to show that works of art are all around us. You are proving that we are in the midst of a living culture. . . . I hope the project you have begun will be a real inspiration to your students."

Informal remarks were also made by Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County schools.

The concluding group of nine selections was by Bristol high school choir, directed by Charles H. Quigley. Mr. Quigley was introduced by Mrs. William Harding, president of Bristol borough school board.

A certificate was presented by H. Franklin Moore, president of Bucks Co. Board of School Directors, to Walter S. Miller, who was president of the county board for a number of years.

Mother of Small Children Is Under a Continual Strain

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

ANY mother with two or three little children close in age is under a physical and emotional strain such as few fathers realize. Usually she does all the housework besides caring for and managing these youngsters. If she can stand it she may do better by the children to leave them more to themselves.

"Dear Dr. Myers: We have two boys, aged 27 months and 14 months. It's a busy time. My biggest problem currently is to keep both of them occupied. What one does the other must do. In fact, the elder boy is imitating the younger, and I thought it would be the reverse. On occasion the elder will even climb into the baby's high chair and chatter incoherently.

Poise and Serenity

"You often emphasize poise and serenity in the mother to promote calmness in the young child. How is that to be accomplished? My own experience is that once I get up steam I have to hold the rapid pace all day to get even the minimum of work accomplished. Theoretically, a calm attitude and a rapid pace should not be incompatible, but to achieve this combination another theory is necessary."

Substantially, I replied: I just wish I could do more to make the burdens of you mothers lighter. In your place, I can't imagine any of us fathers doing as well as you do or being so calm. Don't be too hard on yourself for being jittery at times. Of course, any planning of your work and of the management of these youngsters that can reduce the strain on you should be very desirable.

Periods of Peace

Please try to let more things around the house go and not to be worried as you do. Expect a lot of conflicts between these two little children. Be happy over the short periods of blissful peace. Aim first to establish some effective controls over each of them so they will acquire a few essential inhibitions. By now the elder boy must have learned to avoid a few forbidden objects and acts. Train the younger in this direction, too, especially to respect the rights and possessions of the elder. Don't expect the elder always to give up to the younger.

When matters grow very tense, sit down and rock and cuddle the elder and read to him. The younger may then listen some, too. The elder supposes he does not get as much fondling and attention as the younger, evidenced by his pretending to be the baby.

When Dad is home, he should take over these children most of the time, reading to the elder, explaining things to him, making things with or for him and the younger, walking with them, and guiding them in having good times with each other. Also he should help see them off to bed and help care for them at night. This would not only lessen the strain on you but would also afford rich companionship of the father with these little boys.

Of course, you might not be able to get Dad to share so generously by telling him he should. You might, however, win him in your persuasive, lovely way, to do so, especially as you express generous appreciation of such cooperation in him.

Four school buses transport the pupils to the elementary and secondary schools. These buses operate on a very close schedule from 7:40 a. m. to 9:00 a. m. and from 3:15 to 4:45 p. m. There are many requests for additional bus service which can only be supplied by beginning the gathering of pupils earlier in the morning and continuing the distribution later in the evening, or by the purchase of additional buses. "Some parents have expressed the view that pupils are gathered too early in the morning and taken home too late in the evening. If this feeling is general and additional buses are purchased the cost in taxes will necessarily be higher, it is pointed out.

"The Pennsylvania General Assembly during the 1949 session enacted legislation making possible the construction of school buildings by the State Authority and the payment for them on a rental basis over a 30 year period. Another act of the General Assembly has made possible partial state reimbursement on rental payments by school districts. Very recently the State Retirement Board loaned to the State Authority thirty million dollars to be used for the construction of school buildings. This money naturally has to be used for the construction of school buildings. This money naturally has to be returned to the State Retirement system by rental payments from school districts which have availed themselves of the State Authority Program," concludes a statement by the school authorities.

For the Enrichment of Life

LONGFELLOW WAS RIGHT when he penned the words—"Time is fleeting."

If you want a Cadillac, and feel that you are entitled to one, you ought to make arrangements at once to have one delivered into your possession.

Each day you forego it, you will lose a goodly measure of happiness and satisfaction—for a Cadillac is a joy to possess, and a joy to utilize. Many say that it adds to the zest of their whole day's activities.

Certain it is that a Cadillac brings with it the utmost in performance, in comfort, and in safety—and that it contributes immeasurably to its owner's peace of mind. Few, indeed, can be happy without a Cadillac—once they have learned how greatly it enriches their lives.

If you are among the many who have the impulse to own a Cadillac, come in and see us soon. Each day you delay means a loss in satisfaction which no other material possession can hope to supply.

Church Ball League Presents Awards

odist Church; the Rev. George E. Boswell, pastor of St. James' Episcopal Church, Bristol; and Edward Killian, owner of the playing field. Mrs. Killian, on behalf of her husband, said the league may have the use of the field next year and as long as they want to use it.

Mr. Dewees thanked the members of the league for making this a successful year and making this dinner possible. He then introduced Louis Tomlinson, statistician of the league.

Mr. Tomlinson said: "1949 was the best year ever for the league; but it had been a real banner season; and hopes the next year will be even better."

"The league must not stand still, but must go forward and become stronger. The rules must be enforced and new ones made so the league will grow and be a real thing in promoting fellowship among the churches."

"This winter the league is not going to fold up until spring but will be having meetings all winter getting ready for next season. There are many things to be discussed and thought over. Each team should have a representative at each meeting. It is expected to operate with eight teams in the league again next year, and it is hoped that if at all possible all teams will have uniforms. Also, it is felt that if the pastors of the teams' churches will follow the team around it will help to promote good fellowship and encourage the players."

In closing, Mr. Tomlinson said: "It is hoped that the league will be able to make player awards in the future."

The next one to be introduced was Charles Mudie, secretary of the league, who in turn introduced the guest speaker, "Chief" Bender. Mr. Mudie said that the "Chief" had quite a record with the Athletics and was now a scout for that team.

"Chief" Bender told of how he became a big league pitcher. He said his first job after getting out of the Carlisle Indian School was on a farm called Penn's Manor. That he was interested in going to school at that time and not about playing baseball. The team he received his start with was the Lawrenceville, N. J., team. From there he pitched for the Carlisle team one spring. One day after he had gone back on the farm he was on top of a load of hay when a man drove up and talked to his boss. He was told to come down, as the man wanted him to play ball for him on Saturday. The price for pitching the game on Saturday was agreed upon, which was five dollars. When the game was over and "Chief" was to receive his money, he received only three dollars and twenty cents. The manager of the team told him that the collections had been very poor, so that was all they could pay him now. Later on he received the other $1.80. That game is where he received the idea of playing ball, and played every Saturday after that.

One Saturday after the game he returned to his boarding house and found a man waiting for him. The fellow asked him if he would like to play ball with the Athletics. "Chief" told him he sure would; so he signed a contract to play for the Athletics for the sum of $300. He went to Florida for training. There were no trainers or doctors; there was just Mr. Mack in those days. I don't know how we ever got in shape, but we did."

The speaker said that he was with the Athletics when they were winning pennants back in the early 1900's and did not make a great deal of money even then, but finally worked himself up to $5,000, which was real good money in those days. According to the "Chief" the only way to become a good big league ball player is to eat, sleep and talk ball-playing. "The players of today are a lot different and are more highly educated and are quick thinkers. We scouts will not talk to a boy until he has finished high school, and if he wants to go to college will do everything to assist him to get there if possible."

"The thing to look for in a young boy who shows promise of becoming a ball player is that he has two hands and is fast on his feet, and not a dumbhead. He must be able to remember what he is told, and if he can be sure to make a good ball player."

In closing, the "Chief" said: "Sports go a long way in creating good-fellowship and the making of friends. Sports teach the young men to think for themselves and to think fast. Besides, it teaches leadership. The young people in sports who show they can remember what they are told and are able to follow orders are the fellows who will be the real leaders of the future."

Mr. Dewees made the following presentations: The trophy for the 1949 pennant winners to St. James' Episcopal Church, Bristol; the 1946 championship trophy to Cornwells Methodist Church, Cornwells Heights. This trophy was not ready in 1946 so is for display now. The Louis Hartman Memorial trophy was presented to the Bristol Presbyterian Church as the 1949 champions.

Several humorous special awards were then presented, after which Mr. Dewees said: "Let's go home tonight determined to make it the best league ever, and that next year will be the greatest."

The Rev. Boswell gave the benediction.

Prominent Clergymen Speak On Anniversary

In observance of its 139th anniversary, Bensalem Methodist Church held special services on Sunday. The theme of the day was "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

The Rev. Burns Brodhead, pastor, introduced the speaker of the morning, Dr. John Oliver Nelson. The hymn "Rise Up O Men of God" was sung as a dedication to the speaker. Dr. Nelson said: "There is more greed and hatred in the world today than ever before. In referring to the world dilemma, atomic bombs, etc. 'Christ was us to think of people as people. In our businesses we think of people as units of clients, or patients, instead of human beings.' . . . 'If we have an 'I-You Relationship' with God, we will have it with our neighbors.' He left this verse (which was spoken by Jesus) with the congregation—'Ye are my disciples if you have loved one another.'"

One former pastor and several neighboring pastors were present for the fellowship hour, and letters were read from several former pastors.

Howard Adams, pastor from Oct., 1931, until March, 1936, spoke for a few minutes, and led the hymn sing which followed this service. Neighboring pastors who were present: Raymond Metz, Trevese Methodist Church; Thornton Lobb, Cornwells Methodist Church; Robert Tomlinson, Byberry Baptist Church; Dr. Charles Brodhead, Trinity Methodist, East Lansdowne, father of Bensalem's pastor.

Dr. Leon T. Moore, former Bensalem pastor and now pastor of West Chester Methodist Church, was the speaker at vespers. He quoted C. V. Hill, Washington, D. C., by saying, "There is a beauty about getting old because when you stop getting old you're dead." He continued: "The adding of years gives a tone to the church that you would not have but for the passing years." . . . "In the Bible it does not say that to be a Christian you have to be a superman, but that if you are not a Christian you are a sub-man."

Three steps Dr. Moore thought the most important in gaining maturity of Christian Life are: (1) People have to change their positions in their spiritual life, putting the "Word" to use in today's world; (2) the church has to change its attitude to one of offensive instead of defensive; (4) transferring the Christianity of the individual over into the community. He concluded: "Christ is ours and we are Christ's, may that be true of Bensalem in the future."

Music for the services was provided by the Slyoff Family, The Crusaders Quartette, and the church choir.

Those who joined church during the morning and evening services, some by transfer and some by affirmation of faith, are: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carter, Harold Myers, Bensalem township; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. George Ruth, Mrs. Grace Ludwig, Bristol, R. D. 2; Carole Dando, Philadelphia; Mrs. Eloise Riggs, Miss Martha Riggs, Langhorne R. D. 1; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ludy, Mrs. R. Strohecke, Newportville; Mrs. Elsie Keitner, Langhorne.

Dinner and supper were served by the Aid Society.

Still Potent Today!

The weird sisters who stirred their evil brew in bygone days, have their modern counterparts in the quacks and charlatans who, each year, mix and sell false remedies to hundreds of thousands of gullible people. Yes, "Witches' Brew" is still potent today—for that is what these fakers are selling. And it will continue to remain potent just as long as people will continue to spend their dollars for these worthless panaceas. Don't fall victim to this fakery. When you are ill—see your doctor. The game was originally scheduled to be played on Dunn Field, Trenton, but transferred here because of the baseball playoff in the Jersey City. The Warriors' Jayvees scored their touchdown in the second period. A long pass, Andy Accardi to Ralston Hedrick put the ball on the 25-yard line. A jump pass by "Bill" Condit to "Jim" Gallagher advanced the ball to the 15. Accardi then sliced off tackle to the 3-yard line and scored on the next play. The forward pass try for the extra point was unsuccessful.

Catholic scored its six pointer in the final period. A fumble took place behind the goal line and a Trenton Catholic lineman recovered for the score.

WARRIORS TO PLAY BRIDGEPORT TEAM HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

The Bridgeport High team which comes here Friday night to battle the Bristol Warriors under the lights is considered to be in the same class school as the local institution.

In the nine games played last season, Bridgeport won three, tied one, and lost five. It beat St. Patrick's, Mastbaum, and Conshohocken, played a deadlock with Royersford, and then lost to Downingtown, Upper Merion, St. Matthew's, Pottstown, and Norristown. It lost to Mastbaum last Saturday, 25-0.

However, the teams that beat Bridgeport had enviable records. Pottstown which trounced Bristol only lost two games during the season. St. Matthew's and Royersford also lost two games while Norristown and Downingtown finished with 6 and 3. Upper Merion won four, lost four, and tied one.

Coach Harry McClister, of the Warriors, will hold practice sessions this afternoon and the next two days. McClister is planning several changes in the lineup. He was pleased with the showing of some of his reserves in the Catholic game and also the Jayvees game yesterday afternoon.

It is practically certain now that Herman "Whitey" Welker will be one of the starting backs against Bridgeport. Welker did a fine job in carrying the ball against Catholic last Friday night.

DEDICATION OF ART

FORM OF PAGEANTAffair at New Hope Brings

BY BUCKS CO. ARTISTS

Said To Be Only Scholastic
Traveling Art Gallery
Of Its Kind

By Staff Reporter

NEW HOPE, Sept. 27.—A pageant of Bucks County art, a dedication ceremony of the Bucks County Traveling Art Gallery, brought together last evening an impressive array of outstanding Bucks Countians. The ceremony, held in Bucks County Playhouse, here, marked dedication of "the only scholastic traveling art gallery of its kind anywhere," and the company which filled the playhouse expressed delight at the unique method of dedicating the large number of works of art, which with but one exception, was by Bucks County artists.

Many celebrities including artists and authors; as well as jurists, lawyers, educators, assemblymen, senators, editors, publishers, historians, industrialists, and also pupils from Bucks County schools were gathered on this auspicious occasion.

A number of those gathered participated in either the unveilings, the dedications, or were paid tribute as having executed the oils, water colors, lithographs, wood engravings, etc. In addition there was in one series a bas-relief, the Bucks County seal, a cathedral border replica by one of Bucks County's outstanding artists in stained glass, and a Plexiglas woodland scene honoring one of the county's leading chemical manufacturing firms, Rohm & Haas Company, Bristol.

As announced in the souvenir programs which were distributed, "The Bucks County Art Gallery was inspired by many persons, notably Dr. Valentine Kirby, formerly chief of art, Department of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; Walter Baum, Edward Redfield and George Sotter. The plan as outlined . . . provides for four groups of works of art, each traveling in a different high school circuit in Bucks County. It that way all four collections will reach all high schools once every four years. A fifth group will be housed in the county educational building at Doylestown. Items from this collection will be on call."

It was further explained that the art gallery is made possible by the generosity of the artists of Bucks County. To date the artists themselves have contributed in discounts and outright gifts over $8,200, with organizations and individuals contributing $960. The plan is to add one item to this permanent collection each year. In the main, objects of art in the gallery will be limited to Bucks County artists and craftsmen.

The program opened with invocation by the Rev. Eli Wismer, pastor of New Hope Presbyterian Church, followed by introduction by H. John Rosenberg, president of Doylestown school board. A concert by Doylestown high school band, directed by J. Paul Nuse, included 12 selections. Following the dedication of the 61 works of art, in which ceremony 107 persons participated, there was introduction by Frank Trembley, Jr., member of Bucks County board of school directors, of Budd Schulberg, of Aquetong, author of "What Makes Sammy Run" and other well-known books. Mr. Schulberg, who moved to Bucks County in 1946, and who is now teacher of writing at Valley Forge

More than 50 members and friends of Plumsteadville Grange were taken on an imaginary tour across the continent, Friday, when George M. Hunsberger, showed natural color pictures he took while on a lengthy trip early in the summer. Mr. Hunsberger was accompanied on the tour by his wife and daughter.

The Hunsberger family, which was gone a month, visited a large number of places of interest.

Of particular interest to the Grangers and their friends were scenes of Yellowstone National Park, the Grand Canyon, of the Colorado, Yosemite Park, the immense wheat fields in Texas, Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco, redwood forests and Boulder dam. Nearer home Mr. Hunsberger, who made brief comments as the pictures were shown, took pictures of various sections in Pennsylvania. These included the capitol in Harrisburg and the Penna. Turnpike.

During a brief business session the master, Raymond C. Gross, and Mrs. Gross were delegated to attend sessions of state Grange in Kane.

Hit broadside by a large trailer-truck, Mrs. Cyril Smith, of Willow Grove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Gehman, Doylestown, suffered an injured ankle Friday, while riding with a neighbor.

The car, a new one, driven by the neighbor, Mrs. Albertson, was struck at Moreland avenue and York road, where the women, said to have the green light, were half way across the intersection when the enormous truck went through

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Russia was attacked by British Foreign Secretary Bevin yesterday in an address to the United Nations General Assembly. He denounced Soviet obstruction of all moves toward universal, ridged "Soviet terminology" in which "peace-loving" was a "word of ill omen" and "warmongering" signified "independence of Moscow." He called the accusation of Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky that the Western Powers had blocked international outlawing of atomic weapons "a stupid charge." Mr. Bevin said the United Nations had "performed a great task despite all obstacles."

Chairman Pearson of the Assembly's Political Committee declared that Russia's attitude on atomic control made her present position "hypocritical and meaningless."

Mr. Vishinsky introduced a resolution condemning war preparations by nations, mainly, he said, the United States and Britain, and another resolution for immediate action to outlaw the atomic bomb under "appropriate strict international control."

In view of Russia's successful atomic explosion, talks between the United States, Britain and Canada on atomic data are likely to be put on a "continuing basis," a State Department official said.

The attack on Russia was joined

Hallowe'en Parade Set
Nov. 2nd, Quakertown

QUAKERTOWN, Sept. 27.—A Hallowe'en parade, to be held here on November 2nd, will be sponsored by Quakertown Fire Co., No. 1, and Loyal Order of Moose.

Both sponsoring organizations have contributed $300 to the parade fund, which had a balance of $40 from last year. In addition, a number of local business houses have made donations, and these have brought the total in the fund to more than $955. It is believed the fund this year will amount to more than $1,000.

Ernest Noll has been named chairman of the parade committee. Woodrow Lewis will serve as secretary, and Howard Percival is treasurer.

School News:

LANGHORNE DISTRICT
ENROLLS 1300 PUPILSBuildings Are Crowded and Classes Are Reported
Large

FIFTY IN SOME CLASSES

LANGHORNE, Sept. 27.—The Langhorne-Middletown schools comprising the four boroughs of Langhorne, Langhorne Manor, Fennel and Hulmeville and Middletown Township opened with a total enrollment of nearly 1,300 pupils. The elementary school enrollment numbers 780 and the high school 509. This year the first grade has 160 pupils as compared with 155 last year and 135 during the previous year. Ten teachers handle the pupils in the first and second grades and four in the third grade. We are rapidly approaching the time when each of the elementary grades will require a staff of from five to six teachers. Every available room in the existing schools is being used. "With the growing enrollment it is immediately apparent that additional building facilities will be required during the next few years or pupils will have to be placed on a half day session," it is stated.

The 16 rooms in the high school accommodate an enrollment of 509 pupils. This is an average of nearly 32 pupils to a room. Consequently some classes number as many as 45 to 50 pupils. The number of small classes are few and are found mostly in foreign languages, advanced mathematics and advanced stenography.

The high school program this year includes several new subjects such as journalism, general physics, business english and business arithmetic. There is need for further extension of the educational program but because of limited facilities this will have to be deferred until a later date. Particularly in demand are advanced courses in industrial arts, art, music and commercial education. This tendency on the part of pupils is in accordance with the pursuits of pupils after leaving school. During the past ten years not more than fifteen percent of the high school graduates furthered their education in institutions of higher learning. The increasing cost of higher education has been a determining factor in the case of many pupils who had the ability and interest to pursue advanced study. Langhorne-Middletown high school graduates who pursue college courses is equal to the state average for all high school graduates.

DICTATORSHIP AT WORK

Whether or not you own a set, you probably have been keeping up with the latest news about television.

So most likely you already know that the next big step for television to take is to go into color.

This has been in the experimental stage for several years. Recently two big companies came forward, each with its own method of broadcasting and receiving full color. The companies both insist that old sets will continue to be able to receive the new type broadcasts in black and white, while adapters will be available to turn the old sets into color-television.

Why aren't these sets and adapters on the market? Of course if you've been reading the newspapers, you know the answer. The Federal Government hasn't given its permission.

There's another bit of recent news which also must be fresh in your mind—the attempt by the U. S. Government to stop the give-away radio shows, where people win everything from a refrigerator to a white elephant for naming a song or telling who was the first President.

Radio and television stations are on notice that they will have to conform to a set of trick regulations which will hamstring this type of program—or their licenses probably won't be renewed.

Let's look at both these matters for a moment. Let's skip the question of whether color television is really "ripe", and whether give-away shows are a form of gambling which ought to be stopped.

The most significant point about both these matters is the high-handed and dictatorial way by which the Washington bureaucrats are trying to "lay down the law" to the American people.

The whole system of free government as outlined in our Constitution is being by-passed. There is nothing "democratic" in the government's approach—nothing resembling the procedures called for by the republican government supposedly guaranteed us. Instead, the way the government is going about these matters is exactly that of a Hitler or a Stalin or a British Socialist official.

HIGHWAY FATALITIES
IN BUCKS THE SAME14 Met Death In Accidents
For First 7 Months In
'48 and '49

BREAKDOWN IS GIVEN

There was no difference in the number of highway fatalities in Bucks County for the first seven months of 1949 and the figures for the first seven months of 1948, the record of monthly comparative motor vehicle traffic fatalities issued by the Bureau of Highway Safety, Dept. of Revenue, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, shows.

Fourteen met death in Bucks County highway accidents in the first seven months last year and in the first seven months of this year. The total highway deaths in the state for that period last year was 851 compared to 843 this year.

For Bucks County the number of rural deaths was two less this year; and the number of urban deaths two more, making the figures for the period the same.

Bucks County had one pedestrian death in the seven months period, or three less than in that period in 1948. Rural pedestrian deaths were: one in 1949, and three in 1948.

BRISTOL BOROUGH POPULATION IS ESTIMATED BY PUBLISHERS OF NEW DIRECTORY FOR THE AREA AT 13,283

Actual Count Gives 12,283 Residents of Borough—From
From Cards Mailed It Is Ascertained There Are 1000
More—"What Is Population of Bristol?" Has Been
The $64 Question.

What is the population of Bristol?

That is the $64 question in the minds of Bristol residents, and those of the nearby area. A similar question is also being asked by residents of communities adjacent to Bristol regarding their populations. There have been many guesses. Some have guessed high and some have estimated low. The majority have contended that Bristol population is well above the 13,000 mark, while others have said that the number of people residing here is between 13,000 and 14,000. Some estimates have gone as high as 18,000.

In an effort to get accurate figures on the subject, the Bristol Courier consulted the offices of John Clark & Company, publishers of the new Bristol directory which is now on the presses. The figures supplied by Mr. Clark have been broken down for Bristol borough and Bristol township. The Clark Company assigned a corps of solicitors to make a house-to-house visitation, and in this way obtain the number of occupants of each dwelling. "We did not pay our man on a per name basis," says Mr. Clark.

"They were on a salary basis, so there was no incentive for them to turn in more names than there are people."

The figures supplied the Courier by the Clark organization show that by actual count it was found there are 12,283 residents in Bristol borough. In instances where no one was at home at the time of the visit of the solicitors a card was left with the request that it be filled in and mailed. From these cards it was ascertained that there were 1,000 more residents, making a total estimated population for Bristol of 13,283.

It is going to be interesting to compare the figures just obtained with those which will be compiled by the U. S. Census Bureau in its enumeration next year.

Following World War II, like the period after World War I, during which time there had been a large influx of people here, there has always been a discussion as to the growth of the municipality.

A count of the population of Bristol Terrace I, Bristol Terrace II, Fleetwing Estates, and Landreth Manor (districts in Bristol township), gives 2,469. In addition to this, the Clark Co. learned that there are approximately 2,800 people served by rural mail delivery routes out of the Bristol post office. These figures give an estimated combined population of what is generally considered the Bristol area of 18,552. On the mail delivery routes out of the Bristol post office some are also served in Falls township, and some in Bensalem township.

Population trends in Bristol borough since 1870 are here given for each census enumeration period: 1870, 3,269; 1880, 5,273; 1890, 6,555; 1900, 7,104; 1910, 9,256; 1920, 10,273; 1930, 11,799; 1940, 11,895.

In the canvass made by the Clark organization, all male residents, their wives, the number in the family, and listing of all children over 18 years of age, was included. This will be set forth in the directory upon its release.

odist Church; the Rev. George E. Boswell, pastor of St. James' Episcopal Church, Bristol; and Edward Killian, owner of the playing field. Mrs. Killian, on behalf of her husband, said the league may have the use of the field next year and as long as they want to use it.

Mr. Dewees thanked the members of the league for making this a successful year and making this dinner possible. He then introduced Louis Tomlinson, statistician of the league.

Mr. Tomlinson said: "1949 was the best year ever for the league; that it had been a real banner season; and hopes the next year will be even better."

"The league must not stand still, but must go forward and become stronger. The rules must be enforced and new ones made so the league will grow and be a real thing in promoting fellowship among the churches."

"This winter the league is not going to fold up until spring but will be having meetings all winter getting ready for next season. There are many things to be discussed and thought over. Each team should have a representative at each meeting. It is expected to operate with eight teams in the league again next year, and it is hoped that if at all possible all teams will have uniforms. Also, it is felt that if the pastors of the teams' churches will follow the team around it will help to promote good fellowship and encourage the players."

In closing, Mr. Tomlinson said: "It is hoped that the league will be able to make player awards in the future."

The next one to be introduced was Charles Mudie, secretary of the league, who in turn introduced the guest speaker, "Chief" Bender. Mr. Mudie said that the "Chief" had quite a record with the Athletics and was now a scout for that team. "Chief" Bender told of how he became a big league pitcher. He said his first job after getting out of the Carlisle Indian School was on a farm called Penn's Manor. That he was interested in going to school at that time and not about playing baseball. The team he received his start with was the Lawrenceville, N. J., team. From there he pitched for the Carlisle team one spring. One day after he had gone back on the farm he was on top of a load of hay when a man drove up and talked to his boss. He was told to come down, as the man wanted him to play ball for him on Saturday. The price for pitching the game on Saturday was agreed upon, which was five dollars. When the game was over and "Chief" was to receive his money, he received only three dollars and twenty cents. The manager of the team told him that the collections had been very poor, so that was all they could pay him now. Later on he received the other $1.80. That game is where he received the idea of playing ball, and played every Saturday after that.

One Saturday after the game he returned to his boarding house and found a man waiting for him. The fellow asked him if he would like to play ball with the Athletics. "Chief" told him he sure would; so he signed a contract to play for the Athletics for the sum of $300. He went to Florida for training. "There were no trainers or doctors; there was just Mr. Mack in those days. I don't know how we ever got in shape, but we did."

The speaker said that he was with the Athletics when they were winning pennants back in the early 1900's and did not make a great deal of money even then, but finally worked himself up to $5,000, which was real good money in those days. According to the "Chief" the only way to become a good big league ball player is to eat, sleep and talk ball-playing. "The players of today are a lot different and are more highly educated and are quick thinkers. We scouts will not talk to a boy until he has finished high school, and if he wants to go to college will do everything to assist him to get there if possible."

"The thing to look for in a young boy who shows promise of becoming a ball player is that he has two hands and is fast on his feet, and not a dumbhead. He must be able to remember what he is told, and if he can be sure to make a good ball player."

In closing, the "Chief" said: "Sports go a long way in creating good-fellowship and the making of friends. Sports teach the young men to think for themselves and to think fast. Besides, it teaches leadership. The young people in sports who show they can remember what they are told and are able to follow orders are the fellows who will be the real leaders of the future."

Mr. Dewees made the following presentations: The trophy for the 1949 pennant winners to St. James' Episcopal Church, Bristol; the 1946 championship trophy to Cornwells Methodist Church, Cornwells Heights. This trophy was not ready in 1946 so is for display now. The Louis Hartman Memorial trophy was presented to the Bristol Presbyterian Church as the 1949 champions.

Several humorous special awards were then presented, after which Mr. Dewees said: "Let's go home tonight determined to make it the best league ever, and that next year will be the greatest."

The Rev. Boswell gave the benediction.

President Truman signed the bill extending the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act for two years.

No progress was made in talks between the union and United

ST. FRANCIS WINS SECOND STRAIGHT GAME OF SEASON

BORDENTOWN, Sept. 27 — St. Francis Vocation School's 125-pound team won its second straight game yesterday as it defeated the Bordentown Manual Training School 135-lb. team. Final score was 8-0.

Brother Edwin Anthony's contingent waited until late in the first quarter to make its first score. "Johnny" McGeary paved the way by recovering a Bordentown fumble on the eight yard line. Carl Francis then stood on his 15-yard line and heaved a pass to "Jim" Hagan for a touchdown.

The Eddington lads added two points via a safety in the second session. "Buck" McDermott got off a nice boot which went to the Manual Training 3-yard line. Ambrose, Bordentown back, attempted to carry the ball but was nailed behind the goal line by Francis Clark and Ambrose Wicks.

HIGH JUNIOR VARSITY TIES TRENTON TEAM

The Junior Varsity teams of Bristol High and Trenton Catholic High battled to a 6-6 tie yesterday afternoon on Memorial Park field. The game was originally scheduled to be played on Dunn Field, Trenton, but transferred here because of the baseball playoff in the Jersey City. The Warriors' Jayvees scored their touchdown in the second period. A long pass, Andy Accardi to Ralston Hedrick put the ball on the 35-yard line. A jump pass by "Bill" Condit to "Jim" Gallagher advanced the ball to the 15. Accardi then sliced off tackle to the 3-yard line and scored on the next play. The forward pass try for the extra point was unsuccessful.

Catholic scored its six pointer in the final period. A fumble took place behind the goal line and a Trenton Catholic lineman recovered for the score.

WARRIORS TO PLAY BRIDGEPORT TEAM HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

The Bridgeport High team which comes here Friday night to battle the Bristol Warriors under the lights is considered to be in the same class school as the local institution.

In the nine games played last season, Bridgeport won three, tied one, and lost five. It beat St. Patrick's, Mastbaum, and Conshohocken, played a deadlock with Royersford, and then lost to Downingtown, Upper Merion, St. Matthew's, Pottstown, and Norristown. It lost to Mastbaum last Saturday, 25-0.

However, the teams that beat Bridgeport had enviable records. Pottstown which trounced Bristol only lost two games during the season. St. Matthew's and Royersford also lost two games while Norristown and Downingtown finished with 6 and 3. Upper Merion won four, lost four, and tied one.

Coach Harry McClister, of the Warriors, will hold practice sessions this afternoon and the next two days. McClister is planning several changes in the lineup. He was pleased with the showing of some of his reserves in the Catholic game and also the Jayvees game yesterday afternoon.

It is practically certain now that Herman "Whitey" Welker will be one of the starting backs against Bridgeport. Welker did a fine job in carrying the ball against Catholic last Friday night.
